The Museum has been closed during January and February. There had been water damage to several ceilings and walls which have now been patched and painted, so we are hopefully back to normal. The schoolroom has been rejuvenated as has the upstairs back hall.

It will be pleasing for the members to know how well attended the Museum was during November and December. The children's Tea Party was again well attended. We were fortunate to have some older Boy Scouts to help with coats, seating, serving and cleanup. We truly thank them and it is great that they would like to return.

Our Community Usage program swelled - 14 different organizations and private individuals made reservations for their functions. Our thanks to them for considering our facility. The gift shop was well received and those attending the parties helped to make our efforts worthwhile.

We thank those who contributed toward the roof replacement expense. Those donations, donations from Chambers Management and Chris and Nanette Walker, the gift shop proceeds, the sale of the Bicentennial baskets and the book sales all helped to pay for the roofing bill. It is gratifying how quickly the members come to our aid. (There are baskets and books still available.) Having mentioned the books, we feel the membership should be aware of the hours and hours put forth on the book by Jean Wallis and Freida Redkey. Jean wrote many pages for different groups and Freida handled the finances. Thank you, Gals, your efforts certainly have paid off. Lest we forget to inform our readers - Julie Pence won the raffle for the Elves and Santa on the ladder.

MORE THANKS - The new W/W Cleaners donated the cleaning of various items we plan to place in a new display. Al Martellotti and his wife have been taking inventory of all the military items that are in storage in preparation for this display. We will keep you informed on its progress.

We would like for all to know that the New Market Community Building is now on the National Register. We are opening March 3 and will be here on Fridays during the month of March and then return to our normal schedule (Fridays and Sundays) beginning in April.

2005 HISTORICAL HOME TOUR

As previously reported, the Society has picked Sunday May 1, 2005, from noon to 5:00 PM for our bi-annual Tour of Homes. St. Mary's Episcopal Church will be our featured house of worship as they will be celebrating their 150th anniversary. This year's event will be one of our largest since we have nine homes committed as well as the church and the Highland House. The homes include three newer units as well as those that are of historical interest. As usual Jean Wallis will write a series of "background stories" on the history of these homes that will begin appearing in the Times Gazette in the near future. Tickets will continue to be $10 and will go on sale April 1 at the Highland House, Wilkin Insurance and the Get Away Caf . We are in need of volunteers to assist the owners on tour day. If you are interested in participating in this Bicentennial event, please contact Pat Limes at 840-0654.

Martha Watkins

VOLUNTEERS

The Museum will reopen on Sundays from 1 to 4 P.M. on April 17. Anyone interested in acting as a "host" during one of our upcoming Sunday afternoon openings should contact Ann Rhude at 393-1255. Remember you don't have to be a Society member to serve as a Sunday afternoon host.

THIS "OLD HOUSE" NEEDS YOUR HELP

In our November 2004 issue of Museum Muses we made a special plea to all to make contributions to some serious repair work on the Highland House. As noted in our Director's report your response was very gratifying. To date we have collected over $900 in donations to help support the costs of our extensive roof repair project. Thank you all for your generous help. For those of you who would still like to contribute to the ongoing cost of the Highland House's maintenance and repair, we have included the enclosed form.

GREETINGS FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

Copies of the Pictorial History Book of Highland County arrived in December. If you ordered a book and have not yet picked it up, please do so at the Highland House. For those who did not get one of the initial offerings or who need additional copies for gifts, etc. we have them available at the Highland House on Fridays and at Wilkin - Wilkin Insurance, 131 South High Street. They are priced at $49.95 including tax. Sales of these "extra" books are going very well.

Starting Friday, March 4 the Highland House will be open on Friday afternoons from 1 to 5 P.M. This year we will not reopen the Museum on Sundays until April 17, just in time for anyone interested in purchasing tickets for the House Tour on Sunday, May 1. On Friday, February 18, Highland County reached its 200th birthday. A proclamation was signed by the Board of Commissioners on February 9, proclaiming that February 18, 2005 be celebrated as Highland County's 200th birthday. The Records Office staff entertained a party with two birthday cakes celebrating the occasion.

To celebrate the bicentennial of Highland County, our general membership programs will begin on Sunday, March 13 with a Spring Brunch starting at 11:30 A.M. Throughout the remainder of the year from April to September the programs will be presented by the elected officials from our county offices. Their scheduled appearances are: Paulette Donley, County Clerk of Courts, at 7 P.M. on Thursday April 28; Dwight "Ike" Hodson, County Recorder, on May 26; Rich Graves, Russ Newman and Mike Rector, the County Commissioners, at our June 23 annual meeting and picnic; Ron Ward, County Sheriff, on July 28; Bill Fawley, County Auditor on August 25; and Kevin Greer, County Probate and Juvenile Judge, on September 22. The Log Cabin Cookout on Thursday October 27 will feature Al Martellotti presenting a program on Lieutenant Casper Weaver Collins.

Interesting things continue to happen at the Museum. The Jr. Mother's Club, as owners, gave to the Museum the outfitted mannequins that have resided in the Bell Opera House. One of which is now part of the decor in the parlor. The wedding dress of Signa Dixon's mother was one of the outfits. W & W Cleaners donated the cleaning costs of this dress as they have done on several other items.

Another noteworthy item--Al Martellotti, a Civil War enthusiast, is assembling a display of past wars' uniforms in interesting settings. M/M Martellotti have inventoried the military items that have been in storage and now have displayed several uniforms in our Meeting Room. We will keep you posted on the progress of this undertaking.

We are proud to have had a bridal shower, a mother/daughter tea and 2 Cub Scout groups request or hold a function at our facility.

Incidentally, during the House Tour, we again received many compliments on the condition and appearance of the Museum. Remember your memberships and donations support this cause. Encourage your friends and neighbors to join the Society. The sales from the Pictorial Book, the House Tour, and individual donations have allowed the Board to consider new storm windows to help alleviate the huge heating bills of the Highland House Museum. More info forthcoming on this effort.

2005 HISTORICAL HOME TOUR

The weather cooperated with a beautiful the spring afternoon and we had a very successful tour of our nine homes and St Mary's Episcopal Church on Sunday, May 1. Our total ticket sales were 391. That coupled with the 90 complimentary ones that were given to the volunteers means that close to five hundred people visited the homes between Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. Ticket sales plus donations totaled to $4255. We estimate that 90 volunteers and home owners joined us for Saturday's Owners' Appreciation Dinner.

Our expenses (mainly the ticket printing) were $420 which gave us a profit of around $3830. That coupled with the sale of four pictorial history books and several baskets on Sunday afternoon pushed our total take from the event to around $4200.

Our thanks go out to all who attended, the businesses that donated food and funds, the volunteers who helped man the homes and assisted with the dinner, the committee members who worked on the planning of the tour for close to a year and especially the owners who so graciously opened their homes to the community for this traditional event.

Martha and Tom Watkins

GREETINGS FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

Our yearly meeting will be held Thursday evening, June 23 starting at 6 P.M. with a carry-in dinner (picnic) at the Highland House Museum. Bring your own table service and a well filled basket. Drinks will be provided by the Society.

The Highland County commissioners Rich Graves, Russ Newman and Mike Rector will be in charge of the program. This year's programs were planned to give the public an opportunity to learn more on the history of Highland County, as we celebrate the 200th anniversary of its founding.

At the yearly meeting we will also be electing two persons to the board of trustees for 2005 - 2006. Following the meeting and program there will be a short meeting of the board of trustees, in place of our regular meeting for June.

The house tour was a great success. We thank the committee for their hard work, as well as the home owners.

The sale of the Pictorial History of Highland County is going very well, as are the bicentennial baskets.

The Festival of the Bells will be held on June 30, July 1, and 2. The Museum will be open on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. We need extra people for Saturday and Sunday. Please contact Ann Rhude, 393-1225, or Margaret Van Frank, 393-3392, if you can help.

Future programs: July 28, county sheriff Ron Ward; August 25 county auditor Bill Fawley; and September 22 probate judge Kevin Greer.

This Old Temperance House

By Carie Schafer

I have heard some in town refer to it as the “beast.”

Others more accurately call it the “Mother Thompson Home” or “Governor Trimble House.” My husband and I have named it our “three year project.” I suppose our name for the house at 133 Willow Street could be called quite dull in comparison to how it was described by political figures in the 1870’s as the “stately mansion on a hill.” Unfortunately, this once “stately mansion,” can only be referred to in its present condition as a “handyman special.” Thankfully, my husband, Marshall, happens to be such a fellow and he will tell you that he is up to the task.

We were originally approached last Fall by our neighbor, Daniel Lords, the well-traveled marionette master, to purchase the Governor’s House. My husband and I used to walk by the home every evening in the Fall and Summer on our nightly walks and had to admit that we had never given it a second glance. Mr. Lords urged us to take a serious look at it and said that it was a very historic home in great need of TLC. On our next nightly walk we peeked in a few windows and caught sight of a beautiful grand staircase and eleven and a half foot tall ceilings. We eventually bought the home that winter and immediately started researching its origins and history.

If you have noticed the signs coming into our town of Hillsboro that speak of this community as the birthplace of Eliza Jane Thompson, Temperance Crusader, you can now say that you know where she lived. She was the “beloved and only” daughter of Governor Allen Trimble. Trimble was the eighth and tenth Governor of Ohio and contributed greatly to public education and farm agriculture. It is certainly curious that the signs on every end of town do not speak of him but of his daughter Eliza Jane, who through her efforts, became lovingly known to thousands as “Mother Thompson.”

“Mother Thompson” is credited as the first woman to lead a band of women on a march to local saloons in protest of the sale and consumption of alcohol. The very first band of Women Crusaders started out at the First Presbyterian

The Mother Thompson House is again becoming a showcase.

Church on Main Street and ended up outside community drugstores and saloons urging the owners of such establishments to sign a pledge to refrain from liquor sales. The year was 1873, and the Temperance Movement continued strong for another fifty or so years. Mother Thompson and her ardent followers of about 75 women were ultimately successful at convincing the twenty saloons in Hillsboro to halt the selling of alcohol.

Eliza Jane inherited the family home on Willow Street when her father passed away. She lived her life at that residence with her husband who was a well-respected judge. Many say that her husband was a heavy drinker and probably part of the motivation for her heartfelt temperance crusading. The Trimble estate stayed in the Thompson family for six generations until the home and all of its belongings were eventually sold. Unfortunately, the home no longer has any old light fixtures and most of its doors, including the front doors, are replacements. When owned by Governor Trimble, it was filled with “museum quality” furniture and an impressive collection of art including Native American artifacts. Part of its history was that some of the Native American treaties and political gatherings occurred at the Trimble Home and many gifts were presented to Allen Trimble by

Greetings from your President

The warm, or should I say, the hot days of summer will soon be behind us. With it comes the autumn season, my favorite time of year. The hills put on their bright colors of red, orange, and yellow, as the mornings are a little bit nippy, we know that winter is just around the corner.

Our programs this year by the elected officials of Highland County have been excellent. They have given those who attended a look at the duties of the various offices and a glimpse into the history of the county we call home. On September 22, Probate and Juvenile Judge Kevin Greer honored us with an excellent presentation.

On October 27, at 6 P.M., the ever-popular Log Cabin Cookout will take place. Trustee Al Marrellotti will be in charge of the program. His topic will be Lt. Casper Weaver Collins, the young man from Hillsboro who lost his life at the Battle of Platte Bridge, Dakota Territory, in July 1865.

The October meeting will be the last for the year. Meetings will resume in March 2006.

The Society had a booth at the Highland County Fair, to promote our latest publication, A Pictorial History of Highland County, as well as our society. I would like to take this time to publicly thank those who worked in the booth. They were: Susan Parker, Rick Heflin, Frieda Redkey, Jan Houston, Al and Judy Marrellotti, Maxine Kratzer, Jane Hill, Bill Bolte, Shawn Priest, Margaret Van Frank, Lester and Jean Wallis.

Remember – this is your Society – Support It! Come hear and see what you've been missing.

Jean Wallis

Greetings from your Museum Director

We continue to have great interest shown in the Highland House Museum. An English Class from Southern State Community College was given the assignment to visit us and choose a subject about which to write an essay. It was a busy time and the students declared they thoroughly enjoyed the entire project. Another item of interest-The Historical Society has an email address listed on the Highland County website, thus allowing persons to contact us. The most recent inquiry came from an individual in the Army stationed in Kirkuk, Iraq.

It is with great satisfaction that we report to you that the entire list of accessions associated with the Museum, the Log House and the grounds are now in the computer and also on a backup CD which has been placed in the Society's safety deposit box. We credit and thank Cheryl Porter for the many hours necessary to complete this project; of course this must be updated constantly. A new printer was needed to complete this necessary effort and we thank Dan Higham for installing it.

The Board has accepted the quote from Steve Silis on interior storm windows, we look forward to reduced heating bills. Willa Stanforth asked that a dissertation be written regarding who was primarily involved and what was accomplished to achieve having a completed and properly furnished Log House. This is being compiled and will be displayed in the Log House.

Don't forget to attend the annual Log House Cookout, and watch for a flyer about all the new and unusual Christmas items that will be available in the pioneer gift shop.

Native American War Chiefs. Unfortunately, once again, any trace of such historical items, are long gone. The life-sized oil portrait of James Henry Thompson that once hung in the hall now resides in the upstairs hall of the Highland House Museum.

The current state of the Trimble House is not a very happy one. It was split into four apartments in the 1970's.

The rear unit and south side apartments go quite far in ruining the original architectural beauty of the home. It does still have seven intact chimneys with four of the fireplaces still exposed in the interior. We have already purchased some replacement mantles and will need to replace all of the original wood flooring on both floors of the house. There was a great deal of water damage from roof leakage which makes the home a plasterer/painter's worst nightmare. And probably, the most daunting task, is to straighten the badly tilted upstairs floors and staircase. There are also many broken windows and the need to dismantle three of the four kitchens. After all, as I tell my husband, I am not an adequate enough cook for one kitchen let alone the pressure of owning a home with four!!! We have already started on the major work of replacing the electrical and HVAC systems. My day of celebration will be when the bulldozer arrives to demolish the two add-on apartments. I would exclaim "drinks are on me," but we had better respect the history of this great home and stick to iced tea.

Our hope and three year task is to attempt to restore this historic gem to its original form. We have found a lot of old pictures including sketches of both the interior and exterior drawn by Mother Thompson during her years in the home. These will help us with restoring the south side porch and figuring out where the doors and dry-walled windows might exist. Another unexpected wealth of knowledge came from an elderly gentleman who knocked on our door last summer. He declared himself to be Allen Thompson, named after his grandfather, Allen Trimble. He had been raised in the home and very eagerly walked both the grounds and home with my husband and told him where things were missing and what pieces of furniture adorned each room. Another goal of ours is to decorate the home in period accurate pieces, placing the furniture where they were placed in Eliza Jane's drawings. I thank God for the existence of Ebay and for wonderful carriers of information like Allen Thompson. I hope we will do the town proud with our "this old temperance house" restoration. (Stay tuned to future newsletters for updates on the Governor House Project)

St. Mary's to Celebrate 150 Years

St. Mary's Episcopal Church of Hillsboro will be celebrating the 150th anniversary of the consecration of its church building in the month of October. The building was built at a cost of $12,000, and was consecrated by then-Bishop Charles P. Mellvaine on October 23, 1855. The observance will begin with the traditional blessing of animals on Sunday, October 16, in observance of St. Francis' Day, and will culminate on the following Sunday, October 23 with a festival celebration of Holy Communion at 10:00 a.m. with the Right Reverend Herbert Thompson, Jr., Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio, presiding. From 1:00 p.m. until 3:00 p.m. on that day there will be an Open House, with refreshments to be served, and at 3:00 p.m. there will be an ecumenical Community Service.

St. Mary's was included on the May House Tour sponsored by the Historical Society, and it is hoped that many of those who were not able to see the Church at that time will attend the Open House. The building was also featured on the Fenton glass bells which were available at the time of the Festival of the Bells. Constructed of locally quarried stone, the church has a marble mosaic wall surrounding the altar, an outstanding pipe organ, and a number of beautiful stained glass windows, including four Tiffany's, and one by C.J. Connick who was one of the country's most noted stained glass artists. Many of the windows are memorials to the town's well-known early families. The congregation is planning a series of events to be held at the church each evening of this week of celebration with all of them open to the public. A full schedule will be published in the local papers before that time in October.

Anyone with questions or comments is welcome to call the church office at 393-2043 or the Priest-in-Charge, the Reverend Charles E. Wilson, Jr. at his office, 393-9445.

Highland House Museum Great Learning Experience for School-Aged Children

A visit to the Highland House Museum is a trip into the distant past of our county. Present and former children can see and learn about the past in our pioneer kitchen, with its old-time cooking utensils and cook stove. Nineteenth-century farming implements show how difficult work could be for those who worked the ground. Military uniforms of the past allow an opportunity to teach kids of the great history of Highland County as an important part of the United States' role in the world. The Mother Thompson room honors the leader of the National Temperance Movement in the nineteenth century. Hillsboro native Lt. Casper Collins is honored, with many Civil War-era artifacts of his life on display. The Highland County Hall of Fame shows us all that many great names have been connected with our county. Bring the kids (teachers – bring your classes!) and let them connect the history of their county. Perhaps some of them will be part of the Highland County Hall of Fame one day!
